4. Draw something you hate to eat.

Then ...

  For example: “Is this pizza? Is it your favorite food?” etc.
- In your groups, continue by asking each other these questions:
  1) How often do you eat this food?
  2) Where do you eat this food?
  3) Why do you hate this kind of food?

ACTIVITY NOTES

This activity will work much better if you first model it for your students. Draw a similar body outline picture on the board and draw four different kinds of food in it – make sure these foods are ones that include YOUR favorite food, something YOU ate today, etc.

Once completed, your picture might look something like this:

Let your students then try to guess the foods you drew. For example:

Students: Is that an apple?
Teacher: No, it isn’t.
Students: Is it a tomato?
Teacher: Yes, it is.
Students: Is it your favorite food?
Teacher: No, I hate tomatoes!
Students: How often do you eat tomatoes?
Teacher: I almost never eat tomatoes.
Etc.

Your students’ enthusiasm for the activity will increase a lot once they understand it. Control your class time by setting a 5-minute limit for students to draw their pictures.
